ONCE MONESSEN GIRL MEETS TRAGIC DEATH

Husband Shot Wife, Fired Bullet at Her Sister Then Shot Himself. Jealousy, Domestic Unhappiness and Countless Quarrels Led to Tragedy

DEAD BODY WILL BE BROUGHT HERE TO HOME OF PARENTS ON AFTERNOON TRAIN FROM CITY

A tragedy enacted in the residential district of Pittsburgh yesterday evening claimed the life of a former local girl, Mrs. William Kuen, and the injury of her younger sister, Miss Gertrude Richards. William H. Kuen, the husband, who was responsible for the affair, then turned the smoking revolver upon himself and with two bullets in his body fell to the street seriously injured. The triple shooting occurred at 6:45 last night in Oakland where the enraged husband evidently laid in wait for his intended victim. Rage because his wife refused to withdraw her suit for divorce from him is said to have prompted the tragedy.

Mrs. Kuen was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Richards of Summit avenue and before her marriage seven years ago, was employed as a compositor in local printing offices. She was one of the most popular girls in town and her elopement with Kuen, who was employed as telegraph operator for the P. & L. E. railroad at that time, was a great surprise to her host of friends. They resided in this city for a number of years, when Mr. Kuen was placed in charge of the South Heighths station. Their marital troubles began here and it was reported that the husband beat his wife and would leave on long trips taking all the available cash. He finaly lost his position at South Heighths, following an investigation, which revealed a shortage in his accounts.

They returned to this city and he secured a position at Warman's grocery store, but after a short time he lost this position and the couple again left for Pittsburgh. Mrs. Kuen found it impossible to live with her husband and entered proceedings for a divorce. She secured a position with one of the Pittsburgh papers as a reporter and after a time returned to her husband. Mr. Kuen lost his position again and would take what little money his wife earned and spend it.

They finally separated and although Kuen would wait each evening to stop his wife on her way home from work, she refused to listen to his pleadings for reconcilliation and for the past two weeks has lived in fear of her life as he had threatened her time and again with death. Mrs. Kuen visited her parents here two weeks ago and asked that her sister Gertrude might be allowed to accompany her to Pittsburgh as she feared her husband. This request was granted and Gertrude secured a position as stenographer for a provision company in Pittsburgh, while Mrs. Kuen was employed in a down town store. She visited with her parents over Sunday and told her mother that Kuen had threatened her sister's life and arrangements were made by which both girls should return to Monessen.

The couple had only been separated two weeks the last time, Kuen having left with about $70.00 of their savings and spending the money on a trip. He had not worked for several months and becoming despondent over the state of affairs, it is thought committed the rash act that caused the death of his wife and probably his own.

Police Commissioner Carroll of Pittsburgh, after making an investigation, stated that Kuen had been planning the shooting more than a week.

According to Mrs. J. Sutton who conducts the house in which the women lived, Mrs. Kuen had feared she would be attacked by her husband. Every evening for the past week Miss Richards has been meeting Mrs. Kuen at the street car stop, one block from their home.

Mrs. Kuen was employed in a down town department store and Miss Richards by a North Side provision company. Miss Richards returned home from work earlier than usual yesterday evening. She saw Kuen loitering in the vicinity of Semple street. After preparing supper for herself and sister, she started toward the street car stop to meet her sister.

The two started for their home, walking in Semple street toward Dawson street. Kuen followed them about ten yards behind. As the women neared Dawson street they quickened their pace.

Just as they were walking across Dawson street, Kuen pulled his revolver from a side pocket. Three shots were fired point blank at his wife, all taking effect. Two of the bullets lodged near her heart. As he pulled the trigger he said: "I'll get you."

When Miss Richards heard the shots she started to run south in Dawson street. Kuen fired one shot at her, the bullet striking a comb and causing only a scalp wound.

The shooting took place in front of the Delta Sigma Delta fraternity house, occupied by a number of University of Pittsburgh students. One of them caught Miss Richards just as she was sinking to the ground, while others rushed toward Kuen who was holding the smoking revolver in his hands.

As the students neared him, Kuen opened his coat, pressed th muzzle of

Tie Vote On Award For Fire Truck

An adjourned meeting of council was held last night. Three sewer ordinances were passed on second reading. The right was given to the local patriotic orders to march in uniform at the dedicatory exercises of the new High school. The finance committee recommended the acceptance of the proposition of a New York firm to take $50,000 of the floating debt of the town at four and one half percent. Duvall and Duvall sent a letter of protest to council in reply to a notice to place the Irons houses in better sanitary condition, the contention being that the firm had met with every request and that the houses were up to the requirements of the health laws. The matter was referred to the sanitary committee.

The matter of the purchase of a fire truck was taken up without success. The vote showed a tie, four members voting each way in favor of the Seagrave and Indiana. Either truck costs approximately $5,900.00. It is likely the machine will not be purchased before the ninth councilman is chosen. Council adjourned to meet the first Wednesday night of next month.

RED, WHITE AND BLUE DAY SOON

Red, White and Blue day will be observed here Saturday for the benefit of the East End Children's Home for Girls in Pittsburgh. Litle bows of ribbon of the national colors will be offered for sale on the streets by at least fifteen chaperons and one hundred local girls. No set price is asked for the bows and persons may give any amount to this worthy cause. The institution is non-sectarian in its work and purpose, and both Catholics and Protestants will assist in the campaign here Saturday.

Monessen Man Goes To Pen Three to Five Years

Tony Lemma of Monessen charged by Ella Legeza with intent to rape, goes to the pen for not less than three, nor more than five years. Tony was a former employe of the borough and was considered a quiet, harmless fellow until he got into this trouble.

The girl worked in the restaurant of Chef Andrews on Sixth street, and was on her way to work early in the morning last March and when she arrived at the alley near Parr's grocery, Lemma is alleged to have taken hold of the girl, dragging her into the alley, but before injuring her he is supposed to have been scared by the cries of the girl. Chef Andrews notified the police and Lemma's tracks in the snow led to his arrest.

He was given a preliminary hearing before Squire Shuster and bound over to court where this week he was convicted. In addition to the prison sentence he was fined $1.00 and costs.

Down With the Auto

Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, has launched a campaign against cigarettes and has enlisted the aid of his colleague, Thoms A. Edison. Their aim is to prohibit the manufacture and sale of cigarettes. If this mania for prohibiting one thing and another continues, it may get beyond the control of even the Fords and the Edisons. Some chap, looking around for something to reform, will perhaps discover the frightful things for which the automobile for instance, is directly to blame. Astounded by his discoveries he will set about to organize an Anti-Automobile Association. Thousands will flock to his standard. Then they will elect a man to the legislature and that man will introduce a bill to prohibit the manufacture, sale and use of the automobile, He will have staggering arguments to back up his demand. He can present a petition signed by the pastors and members of a certain religious body in Indiana, praying for the passage of the bill on the broad grounds of morality, This sect has already forbidden its members to buy or use automobiles. The legislators will make a thrilling speech, bristling with irrefutable statistics and interspersed with appealing and pathetic word pictures. He will point to the fact that 10 persons a day, over 3,700 a year, including strong men, beautiful women and innocent little children meet violent deaths on account of the Demon Automobile. He will depict graphically the mangled bodies, the desolate homes, the weeping orphans of the poor victims of this modern Juggernaut. Turning to the divorce courts he will prove by the official reports that the automobile joy ride has clogged the hoppers with cases of wrecked domesticity. He will show how pure, innocent girls are daily led to their ruin by the soulless scoundrels who run automobiles. He will point to the mortgages hanging over thousands of American homes, mortgages negotiated for the purpose of raising funds to buy and keep up these inventions of Satan. He will show how the millions spent for automobiles could be used to build Panama canals and pay national debts. He may point to the gasoline barons, and the rubber magnates and the auto millionaires rolling in their ill gotten wealth, while their poor victims are struggling through the divorce, probate, chancery and bankruptcy courts. He will call upon the manhood and womanhood of our fair land to arise in its might and crush this monster which, today, is sapping the very life blood of the nation. And perhaps. he may be able to get away with it. Who knows? Stranger things are happening every day. It will make no difference if you are a well to do man and can afford an automobile; if you are a careful man and never had an accident or if you are a family man and never would think of taking a ride unless you took the wife and kiddies along. The case against the automobile has been proven. Its use must be prohibited. It is not for you to say that you can handle one without danger to yourself or others. That's what they all say. Down with it.

Eldora Park Opens Friday

Affairs are in the best of shape for the opening of Eldora park Friday night of this week. All the buildings have been repainted, the paths resurfaced and put in good shape, and the floor of the dancing pavilion scraped and re-polished, among other improvements. Arrangements have been made for the installation of a new carousal, though it may not be in shape for the Donora school picnic on the coming Friday.

On Sunday the first concert of the season will be given by the Donora Steel Works' band, one of the best known organizations of the kind along the valley. For the dancing pavilion during the season, Wheeler's orchestra of Charleroi has been again engaged.

Next week will be a week of school picnics, the first of the week to be that Tuesday of the Roscoe schools. Charleroi schools will hold their picnic on Wednesday, and the Monongahela schools on Thursday. Definite street car schedules are being made out following the usual plan, and each pupil in the schooi will receive the usual number of free tickets to the various amusements.

Mrs. J. Jenkins of Monongahela, is to continue this year her popular Monday night dances, and the Delmar club of Monessen has engaged the dancing privileges for Tuesday evenings. The Weber Friday nigth dances will be continued through the season.

Two club dances of much note among the young people of the community have been booked for the early part of June in the Alpha Phi Beta fraternity dance on Wednesday, June 9 and the Bachelors' Girls dance on Wednesday, June 16.

CONVERTED RABBI HOLDS ATTENTION

Yesterday afternoon the Rev. Dr. Wertheimer, the converted Jewish rabbi, continued his series of lectures on "From Egypt to Caanan." These addresse are given every afternoon at 2:30 and are very instructive and helpful. At the evening service Dr. Wertheimer spoke on "The Deity of Christ" There was a large and appreciative audience which listened to his logical arguments as he discoursed on the 22nd and 23rd verses of the 5th chapter of John. The sermon was one of the best yet delivered and certainly should undermine the belief of any one who holds that Christ was only human. The proofs brought forward for the Deity of Christ were unanswerable.

Tomorrow night the subject will be "Satan." Come and hear about the personality of the Devil. Where did he come from? Who was he?

Anyone having difficult passages of scripture which they don't understand, or any other question touching religion or religious belief are requested to write out such questions and drop them in the question box and Dr. Wertheimer will answer same. Don't sign your name. If you have never heard this wonderful Rabbi, throw aside all prejudice if you have any and come and hear him. We extend an invitation and will be glad to welcome both Jews and Gentiles to our meetings. This is a rare opportunity that the people of Monessen are having in hearing such a mighty man on the Scriptures.

Great for Emergencies

San Cura Ointment Should Be in Every Home

There never was known a more reliable ointment than San Cura. In most every case where it has been used, it has created astonishment. It drew a needle out of the foot of the daughter of Mrs. James Hitchcock, of Centreville, Pa., after the doctor had used his lance and failed.

It has healing and antiseptic value. It possesses so much healing virtue that it is guaranteed by Craig's Drug store to relieve any kind of piles, eczema, tetter, salt rheuma, boils, carbuncles, ulcers, all kinds of chronic sores, chilblains and shaped hands, or money back.

It's a mighty handy remedy to have in the house in emergencies for bruises, burns, cuts or scalds, because it relieves the pain and is antiseptic and healing. It's a medicine chest in itself—a little family physician that is ever in demand. 25c and 50c a jar at Craig's Drug store.

HAS SOME SPLENDID FEATURES

Chief Executive Says That the Measure Will Operate In the Interest of Future Citizenship—Regret That All Parties Did Not Agree Upon the Measure.

Harrisburg, May 18.—In signing the child labor bill and thereby placing Pennsylvania in the front rank of states engaged in the task of juvenile conservation, Governor Brumbaugh gave out a strong statement asking the people to receive the new law with kindly consideration. He points out its splendid features and predicts that it will prove of great advantage to the men and women of the future.

REP. RICHARD A. POWELL,
Luzerne Legislator and the Author of Important Anthracite Measures.

Following is the governor's statement in full:

"In approving the Cox bill to provide for the health, safety and welfare of minors, it is well to keep in mind the fact that the Republican party in its platform, and its candidate for governor in his campaign, gave positive assurance that an advanced law of this kind should be enacted. The attempts to do this in preceding sessions of the legislature failed. The reasons are matters of history.

"When this session was called it was evident that the same contending parties were at issue upon the provisions that should be included in any bill regulating the employment of minors. I personally felt this keenly. It was my desire to bring these contending groups together in favor of a fair and honest bill. I recognized the point of view held by each and, having for many years not only studied this problem, but actually had to do with its administration under existing law, set about to frame an act that would be fair to our great industries, and also just to our great asset—the children who toil in Pennsylvania.

"It is to be regretted that all parties in interest did not agree upon the measure. It was widely and frankly discussed, and eventually appealed to a commanding majority of the assembly as a wise and proper measure

Humane Features.

"It provides many humane and important features upon which all were agreed. Upon the hours per day and per week it was, I am sorry to record, impossible to reach an agreement. The hours of this act are fair, fifty-one per week, nine per day, and coupled with this provision is a feature, new in the state, providing that eight hours per week shall be devoted to attendance upon a vocational school. This school is new to our American thought. It is the most important feature of the act. Children between fourteen and sixteen years of age ought to be in school—at least part of each week. Unless they are at work they must be in school under present and proper laws. Those that go to work at fourteen ought not be barred from further education.

"If we believe in our common democracy we must believe in the enlightenment of its members. This is fundamental in our American civilization. This act is intended to advance the standards of our citizenship and perpetuate in wiser ways our sacred institutions by giving more enlightenment and vision to our people. No true friend of our civilization, no believer in the genius of our institutions can gainsay the wisdom, the necessity for this provision.

"It is, moreover, conceived in the interest of our great industries. These have been, they are the pride of the commonwealth. No true Pennsylvanian would in any unfair or unjust manner do them harm. They need not only workers, but they need skilled workers. This vocational training will in a speedy manner guarantee to industry the type of service which it needs and which it does not now secure.

"From every point of view and, having in mind the welfare of the commonwealth, the prosperity of our industries, and the conservation of the young life of the state, this act should receive the kindly consideration and the hearty acceptance its beneficent provisions warrant.

"M. G. BRUMBAUGH."

Defeat of the bill in the legislature to increase the tax on automobiles to the extent of 25 per cent means that another revenue raiser will not materialize.

At present it looks as if the anthracite coal tax will be the only big revenue bill to get through. It should net the state about $3,000,000 a year.

The governor is opposed to the bill preventing substitutions after the primaries, and for that reason the bill aimed at that object was not pushed. Philadelphians, who are interested in fusion, were much opposed to the proposed act.

Match your Floors with your Furniture

If you have not already done so, why not dispense with carpets that cover the entire floor? Use rugs, instead—then have the borders of your floors finished in harmony with your furniture and wall coverings.

The result is more sanitary, more modern and a general improvement. And you can do this yourself, if you choose, with

It's Just a Little Button, But It Tells a Great, Big Story

Western Men Have Given Four Million Women the Right to Wear It.

Dr. Shaw Wants Same Right for Pennsylvania Women.

When Miss Jeannette Rankin, of Montana, came to Pennsylvania recently to help the Keystone suffragists in their campaign for the ballot, a little button which she wore attracted much attention. It was only a small button but the inscription on it loomed big It read: "I'M A VOTER."

DR. ANNA HOWARD SHAW

She brought the button with her from the Panama Pacific Exposition at San Francisco, where the women of California and the other Western suffrage States are wearing them to make the visitors from the East realize that there are hundreds of intelligent, everyday women who actually vote in the United States.

Several millions of the buttons have been turned out and they are rapidly spreading to all parts of the country. Miss Rankin sent one to Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, and told her what a big hit the buttons had made.

When the button arrived at Dr. Shaw's Moylan home she was much pleased with it. "I am glad that there are four million women in this country, who like Miss Rankin, can wear this button," she said "I have not the right to wear one but I am going to save mine until November. I hope that the men of Pennsylvania will then give the women of this State the right to consider themselves the equals of their Western sisters."

Dr. Shaw has just started on the biggest campaign of her life The suffrage campaign for the whole nation will come to a crisis this fall when the voters of the four big Eastern States, Pennsylvania New Jersey, New York and Massachusetts, will decide the question Their action will be the keynote for the whole country. For this reason Dr. Shaw is working hard on all of them She has volunteered to spend at least thirty days making speaking tours in each of the four campaign States She has just finished one short tour in Pennsylvania. After visiting the other States in turn she will return here for three or four more tours before Election Day.

Poor Mrs. Dolby

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

When Mr. Dolby sat down for the evening he had his newspaper on his knee and Mrs. Dolby was singing "Rock of Ages" and clearing away the supper table. He had been reading for a quarter of an hour when she quietly entered and sat down and said:

"Samuel, I don't want to disturb you nor make you feel bad, but I feel obliged to ask you a few questions. Last night at midnight Mrs. Watkins saw a light movin' around in our back yard. It was a light which bobbed up and bobbed down and dodged this way and that and when it finally went out gave a great wink and a splutter. It was what they call a ghost lantern, Samuel, and it meant that there would be death in this house within a week. It'll be my death, of course. I've got twenty-seven different ailments, with heart disease throwed in, while you are as healthful as a cornfield. Yes; it'll be me, but I'm not weepin' over it. I'm sittin' right here as calm as catnip, but I want to know some few things."

Mr. Dolby must have known of her presence, but he was too deeply interested in his paper to recognize it. He had found an article which said that a spider could be boiled in water for four hours and then come out with his ambition undaunted

"I shall go to heaven when I die, of course," continued Mrs. Dolby, as her voice broke a little. "I orter go there. Any woman who has whitewashed the cellar every spring for twenty-seven years, besides makin' soft soap, cuttin' carpet rags, dyein' over old clothes and makin' one skirt last her for thirteen years, will go to heaven. What bothers me, however, is how I'm goin' to act arter I git there. You know how company allus flustrates me. If three or four of the neighbors come in I'm almost sure to fall off my cheer or knock over sunthin. How's it goin' to be when I git up there and meet a bull pasture full of angels? There'll be millions of 'em, Samuel."

She paused to wipe the tears from her eyes with the palm of her hand, but as she had asked no direct question Mr. Dolby finished the bug article and turned to one on the care of clotheslines.

"I don't want to be looked at an p'inted out and made fun of up there," said Mrs. Dolby, as she sat with her eyes on the carpet.

"I may git up to heaven in the night, when all the angels are asleep, and so I'll slip in all right. I hope that'll be the way, because it'll give me a chance to kind o' git used to the place before daylight. Do you think they have any breakfast up there? Mrs. Watkins says they don't, but I don't really see how they git along without it."

Mr. Dolby heaved a long sigh and seemed about to speak, but no words came. He had finished with the clotheslines and struck an article about the reasoning powers of the cow, and the most direct question from Mrs Dolby would have passed unheeded. Her tears fell for two or three minutes, and then she asked:

"And how about the beds up there? You know we've slept on a feather bed ever since we were married, and I've allus bin particular to smooth it down from head to foot. I've got used to feathers, and if I changed off I'd jest lay there and kick around all night long. Do they hev beds, Samuel, or do they keep on flyin' around all night long and singin'? Seems to me that flyin' and singin' all day would be enough unless I feel stronger than I do now. You orter tell me so I'll know what to depend on. If one of my headaches comes on unexpectedly I want to know that I kin hev a cup of tea. Mrs Watkins says they don't drink tea in heaven, but I don't see how she kin know."

Mr. Dolby was not directly appealed to, and as he was reading that a cow had been known to feign death to avoid having a crowbar thrown at her he made no sign.

"Waal, I've made up my mind to a few things," said Mrs. Dolby as the silence grew painful "I'm goin' up to heaven to do the best I kin. I'll be mayburly with all the angels I meet and let 'em understand that I don't want no more'n my share of harps and wings and things. If I don't find anything to eat or any beds to sleep on I shan't raise no fuss nor go into hysterics. Yes, I'll put up with things as I find 'em and make the best of it, and I won't be jealous if a few of 'em hev better clothes on or kin sing better'n me. That's how I'll act, Samuel, and then if they pick on me they'll git as good as they give. I kin be sassed and picked on jest so fur, but arter that they want to look out. Would it put you out any, Samuel, if I died at night instead of in the daytime? As I said, if I died at night I could slip into heaven without any fuss, but if it's goin' to make any extra trouble I'll perish by daylight. What will be the most convenient hour for you?"

There was deep silence. Mrs. Dolby's tears made no thud as they fell upon the carpet, and Mr Dolby was reading with bated breath that an ostrich covers thirteen feet of ground at every stride when in full flight The clock ticked, the silence grew deeper, and the cricket on the hearth fell into a doze. Then Mr Dolby suddenly laid aside his paper, stretched his arms and legs, with a "Hohum!" and looked around to find Mrs. Dolby asleep in her chair. She hadn't gone to join the angels—not yet!

Horrors of Michigan Murder Parellels Materlinck Death Play

Muskegon, Mich., May 20—When Mrs. Martha Steele, the step mother accused of strangling her 11 year old step daughter, Eveline Mary Steele, steps to the bar of justice here, a terrible tale of jealousy will be unfolded, with horrible details of a deed that parallels the morbid death of "Princess Maleine" by the Belgian author, Maurice Maeterlinck. The trial may be reached today in the circuit court.

Mrs. Steele, who is 30 years of age, and the wife of Albert Steele, of Muskegon, has confessed that on April 21 she poisoned little Evelina by pouring muriatic acid down the child's throat after first tying the child's hands together and blindfolding her. The officials declare, however, that the girl came to her death by strangulation. Like the play of Materlinck, the motive of the terrible deed is a step mother's jealousy, and in both the step mother strangles the child which is slowly dying of poison.

The authorities will endeavor to prove that Mrs. Steele, after watching the child die, buried her under some boards in the shed at the rear of the Steele home. and the next morning exhumed the nude corpse and carried it to an alley 90 feet from the house. Mrs. Steele is alleged to have confessed that she had poisoned the girl, but at the girl's request. When arraigned on April 27th, she plead not guilty. She was hissed by women in the court room and seemed to have no friend in the world.

The Strangling Parallel

How Princess Maleine Died

Queen Anne, jealous of 15 year old Princess Maleine, betrothed of Prince Hjalmar, son of her royal paramous, King Hjalmar, strangles the princess to death in the latter's bedchamber. Queen Anne says: "Oh, then, you are still alive? This pillow is very hard. Let me arrange your hair. But why do you look at me so Madeline? I have come to pet you a little. I will tie your hair with this. Lift your head a little, so. (Passes a cord about Madeline's neck.)

Maleine

(Jumping out of bed.) "Oh, what have you put about my neck?"

Anne

"Nothing. Nothing. It is nothing. Do not scream."

Maleine

"You are going to—Oh, you are going to—Mama, Nurse, Hjalmar, Oh, Oh, Oh."

And

old Hjalmar said "She came down like an angel into my arms. But it was the wind that killed her."

How Evelina Steel Died

Mrs. Steele before her marriage had promised to be a mother to little Evalina and to make her happy. Jealous of the father's fondness for the child, she seized her, tied her hands, blindfolded her and threw her on the bed, and tried to pour poison down her throat. The acid was spilled, searing the child's neck. Then the hands of the woman closed about the tender throat and drew together.

Evelina

"Oh, what are you going to do?" Tries to break away from step mother.

Mrs. Steele

"Keep still."

Evelina

"Oh papa, papa."

"It took twelve minutes for her to die," said Mrs. Steele to the coroner. "I held her until she was dead."

And

Albert Steele, the father said: "Evalina was more than life itself. But my wife killed her."

Something Good At Olympic Theatre

Today at the Olympic the first episode of the 12 vital questions of mankind, entitled "The Price of Fame" in three reels. The next episode will be "The Pursuit of Pleasure" in three reels, and every episode is in three reels. Those who followed "The Exploits of Elaine" know what kind of pictures are the productions of Pathe. They are great, every inch of the film is valuable. They never make any splash at first, producing the best in the first episode, then after that slacking down like some companies do. The Pathe Co. does different. Every episode gets better and to prove this is "The Exploits of Elaine." where you see every episode exactly as represented by us. Take our word for it in this serial picture "Who Pays?" Take our word for it in "The Diamond from the Skies." They are wonderful productions. We never book any of the great pictures unless we have some of the opinons of the great critics who review everyone of these pictures. We know that those who fail to see our great serials will miss one of the best lessons they have ever had. We insist on every person in town seeing these pictures. We stand back of every picture. 1t

Speaks Here Tomorrow

Many people are looking forward with pleasure tomorrow of the visit here of William J. H. Boetcker of Pittsburgh, who will speak to men at the noon hour, to school teachers and pupils in the High school auditorium at 3 o'clock and to the Board of Trade in the evening. At the noon hour the speaker will be the guest of Geo. S. Bowes and dinner will be served at the Kilroy hotel at the regular price. As many as have promised are requested to meet the speaker at this hour. He ranks among the best platform men of the day and his visit here will be hailed with delight.

White Demonstrator Here

E. A. Manning of the White Automobile company of Pittsburgh, was here demonstrating for George Philips, proprietor of the Philips garage, Donner avenue. He had one of the new model White 30 four cylinder touring cars. Within a week or ten days Mr. Manning expects to return to Monessen for another demonstration with one of the 15 four cylinder machines.

A number of local people saw the new and up to date machine, rode in it and liked the treatment given them by Mr. Manning as well as Mr. Philips.

—Ambrose Diehl of Uniontown, was here today canvassing for his electrical appliances.

the revolver to his breast, and just as the students pounced upon him, pulled the trigger twice.

The women were carried into the fraternity house, where first aid treatment was administered by the students, who are studying medicine. The Oakland and Center avenue police stations removed the wounded trio to the hospital.

Kuen resigned his position with the railroad at the time he and his wife separated for the last time. Several times he had made overtures to his wife to return to him, but she refused.

He roomed in Allegheny and about a week ago a roomer in the same house saw the revolver Kuen used, in his pocket. In reply to a query as to what he was going to do with it, he said it would never be used. He had not been at home around 6 o'clock in the evening during the past week, according to the owner of the rooming house. Last Monday Kuen is alleged to have told a roomer that if he did not find a position by today, he would commit suicide by jumping into the Allegheny river. He left his room at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and seemed to be in better spirits than usual.

The body of the dead woman was brought to this city this afternoon on the 2:19 train and removed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Richards, the parents. No arrangements have been made for the funeral but the remains will be interred in the Monongahela city cemetery. Besides her father and mother, the deceased is survived by a sister, Mrs. Clarence Jones of Belle Vernon, formerly chief operator for the Bell telephone company here.
